

Home-made wind chimes.

creativefamilyfun.net

This week I would like you to have a go at creating a wind chime to hang in your garden.

You will need:

A base to attach things to. This could be made from sticks, an old colander, a paper cup, a coat hanger, a plant pot. (Remember to check with your parents/carers first)

String, wool or wire to attach the objects to the base with.

Objects that will make a noise.

Such as keys, old CD's, beads, bottle tops, shells, cones.

If you decide to use tin cans you must ask an adult to get rid of any sharp edges by sanding them down.

Here are some photographs for inspiration. There are lots more on Pinterest.

You could paint the objects before hanging them or keep it natural it is up to you.

Remember to post a photograph on J2E.
